New Bible Study with Don Durham

Jan. 24, 31, Feb. 7
6:30 pm in the Chapel

Bio for Don Durham: Don is the founder of Healing Springs Acres, a not-for-profit farm in Healing Springs, NC that grows food to give away. He has served the Church for over 23 years in both institutional and congregational settings, and currently serves as Intentional Interim Pastor of First Friends Meeting in Greensboro, NC. Don is the father of two wonderful daughters who are 17 and 21. For personal enjoyment and rejuvenation, Don spends his time working around the farm, experimenting with amateur radio, riding a motorcycle, or concocting various other excuses to weld/build/make stuff... Description of Sessions: Healing Springs Acres: A Campfire Stewpot Conversation about: mission/purpose/calling, relationality and relationships in ministry, strategic thinking and evaluating effectiveness, the spirituality of generosity and resourcing ministry, Sabbath pondering and other pregnant questions.

Charge to the People Brian Carden Ordination

On the evening of November 27th, a group of us gathered in this chapel to support Brian in his journey toward ordination. Gathered together were his friends, his colleagues, his mentors - all there to listen as Brian shared his story, to consider his theology as he understands it, to be witness to his deep call to the gospel work, and then to determine if we support him in moving forward with ordination. Ask anyone who has been through it, It is a terribly intimidating and vulnerable process. You all know Brian well, so you won't be at all surprised to learn that it was a lively evening filled with the antics only a Welch, rugby-playing engineer could provide. Brian gave a detailed account of his boyhood faith rooted strongly in the Church of Wales and his Grandmother's devout beliefs, his love for theological questions discovered in his early 20s, his falling out with God after the death of his dad, his return to faith and church as his health began to fail him, his peace with death, the gift of a new heart, the journey toward ministry as his life got a second beginning. Interspersed throughout, as one might fully expect, were welch jokes and shameless plugs for organ donation. With grace and courage Brian shared openly with us.

After sharing his story, we were all invited to ask Brian questions we had about his ministry, theology or faith journey. Brian was insightful and sincere in his responses, but one of his responses has stayed with me more than the others. To my question - "how have your failures taught you about doing ministry with people?" - Brian said, "when you let people see your imperfections, they begin to trust you." What a great truth that is for ministry, and Brian, I hope you will continue to practice this kind of authenticity and vulnerability throughout your ministry. But my charge is not to Brian - my charge tonight is to the rest of you - Brian's mentors, his friends, his family, faith community, Urban Ministry, College Park, New Creation. To all of you who are here this evening, my charge is this - continue to be a place that nurtures in one another the ability to see your imperfections. This is especially true for your ministry. Too many churches hold their ministers to superhuman expectations and too many ministers lose their souls trying to meet them. Your ministers have answers a deep calling to follow Jesus in the way of ministry, but they are not Jesus! They are people with pasts and flaws and insecurities. They will mess up and will find themselves in need of your love and grace and forgiveness. In order for this to be a thriving community of grace, the ministry of love must flow both ways. Only when a minister has the grace to acknowledge his/her own dark places can he/she walk with your through yours.

It was evident to me as I listened to Brian's journey in life and ministry that you get this - you have been this kind of community for Brian. With you Brian has answered a call to ministry, followed that call to seminary, he has faced the imminence of his own death and sat lovingly with friends as they passed on from this world. His journey brought you together and a tother points took you and him in different directions. He received a new heart, made friends, lost relationships, welcomed new grandchildren, found a renewed love for the church and is now here on the night of his ordination. It has been a journey of relationship through which you have both been richly blessed. Your choosing to live graciously together has gifted Brian with the opportunity to live and minister authentic to his self and his calling. You gift Brian with the opportunity to be whole - to see himself in love and in doing so you set the trajectory of his ministry in the way of grace.

Our Ezekiel passage reminds us that when we were a people in exile God did not abandon us, instead God gathered us back to Godself making our exile story a meaningful part of our story with God. Our failure is not to be shamefully forgotten, but is to remind us who we are - and whose we are - and the places our journey has taken us. So tonight, I challenge you to continue to be communities, mentors, friends who nurture one another in authentic, vulnerable life together. Make space for and bless the humanity of those in your midst, walk alongside one another in grace, give witness to the whole experience of life, and allow one another to be fully seen and known so that your and their imperfections might become a meaningful part of your story with God.

Brian Carden Ordination Charge

I am extremely honored to be here with Brian and all of you on this very special day. Brian chose this particular day in honor of his father, Mr. JJ Carden, who passed away 26 years ago today. Brian, I am sure your father is beaming with joy and pride for you here tonight.

This is a special day for Brian, for Brian's family and friends. It is a special day for the Church, for the community, and for humanity. As Brian embarks on this new journey, I feel confident his ministry will reach and aid many people in the years to come. My grandfather, a Presbyterian minister, used to say that "Service to humanity is the noblest of all professions." Brian has chosen to devote his life to God and his work to the service of humanity.

As Brian and I have gotten to know one another and become friends, we have learned that we have shared a common connection; we have both endured near-death experiences, and we have both been delivered through these by the grace of God. These experiences, while different in circumstance and nature, serve to bond us together and are a testament to the power of God.

(Strengths) – Most of you here tonight likely know Brian very well, but for those of you who do not, he is a remarkable man.

He is a quiet leader, an unassuming man, who has lived through a myriad of life experiences – a former British Army Officer and business executive – he now has chosen to continue his journey and ministry by spreading God's word, love and good will.

However, getting to this point has not been easy; there were times that Brian's own survival was in question. He has been to the edge of death several times and has seen things most of us pray we never will. He has been through pains and trials that we pray we will never face.

Spiritually, Brian has been to the point where he lost his faith for a number of years; but he found it again – later in life; or, perhaps God found Brian again – in essence, he was delivered in potentially his darkest moment!

Brian agreed for me to share his experience and some of the challenges that he, together with God, have overcome. In 2005 and again in 2007, Brian suffered heart attacks.

On February 8th, 2008, he was diagnosed with double pneumonia and sepsis; he was placed on life support. In fact, his family was called to his side and his Dr.'s stated he "would not make it through the night." However, as God often does...he had other plans for Brian.

That night, in the midst of this very life and death struggle, Brian was delivered back to God via a dream, or perhaps a revelation, which took place on a mountain in Wales in the presence of others who had been part of his life. This was the beginning of Brian's new life with God.

However, even with this blessed grace and deliverance, old struggles continued and new challenges emerged. In 2009, Brian was forced to leave his career due to his worsening heart condition.

In 2011, circulation problems caused considerable deterioration in his body with traumatic physical consequences. Nevertheless, Brian fought on. He maintained his faith and deepened his relationship with God.

A short time later, Brian was placed on a waiting list for a heart transplant. Interestingly enough, Brian initially did not pray to God for a heart, as he believed this would take it from someone else. Finally, on March 1st, 2012, Brian asked for a heart for the 1st time during his illness – 15 minutes later, he received a call from Duke advising that they had a heart for him. Miraculous!

When I really think about Brian and the reality of his entire experience, I think a quote from a famous Englishman is appropriate!

Winston Churchill once stated, "If you are going through hell, keep going."

Through God's grace, Brian has done just this...his strength, perseverance and tenacity is nothing short of amazing. Of course, Brian, being the humble man he is, gives God all the glory for his miraculous deliverance.

Through it all, Brian has reframed the critical adversities he has faced and turned them into opportunities – he has constructed a new purpose for his life – a devotion to humanity, to help the helpless, the forgotten, the unwanted – the castoffs – to reach the unreachable.

Psalm 9:9 "The LORD is a refuge for the oppressed, a stronghold in times of trouble."

Brian seeks to be a "stronghold" for some of those who need it most – to introduce God to those who have never known Him or to bring those back who have forgotten Him...to reveal His enduring love, peace, and acceptance. In fact, Brian has already been doing this for some time through his service as a Stephens Minister with Greensboro Urban Ministry and Hospice. Brian finds the good in all and is gifted with the ability to make connections with people. Brian's God-given gifts and strengths should prove valuable in his future ministry and endeavors.

The Charges - 4

Brian, my friend, I now humbly and respectfully offer four personal charges to you as you continue God's work.

Remember the mission God has provided you, one that you have so graciously accepted and shared with us – to be a shepherd to the lost – to help those who need God the most – those who need someone with a kind heart and a gentle soul.

Isaiah 25.4 - For you have been a stronghold to the poor, a stronghold to the needy in his distress, a shelter from the storm and a shade from the heat; for the breath of the ruthless is like a storm against a wall.

As you stated Brian, God's kindness has "opened your eyes to the suffering in this world."

Follow your heart and the will of God - Encourage the un-encourageable – reach for the unreachable.

Be compassionate – even when it is hard and your efforts are rebuffed and unwanted.

Remember that no gesture is too small – no act of kindness is insignificant – a seemingly small gesture can change a mind, and perhaps a life...with God's help.

Never forget your own trials, tribulations, and accomplishments and the impact these may have on those you seek to reach.

Your own struggles and challenges have made you strong and allowed you to see the plight of others. These have provided you an understanding far greater than you would have had, without these personal sufferings. God's grace and deliverance has brought you to this point.

Don't hesitate to share your experiences and challenges...and the intervention of God in your life—many of the people you seek to reach have been through hell and many of them are living there now. Your honesty and openness endears you to those around you and provides credibility to those you encounter.

Your life is a testimony to the love and power of God.

Safeguard yourself – create a safe place for yourself
Allow your bags to be heavy – both personal and those absorbed from your flock - accept this when it happens.

Proverbs 17.22 - A joyful heart is good medicine, But a broken spirit dries up the bones.

Accept the bad days, but never give up – always follow through – use your tenacity and perseverance –your faith and experience with God will bolster your strength.

Preserve your light - The light of love and hope that you convey is critical to those who have none.

Isaiah 58.10 - If you pour yourself out for the hungry and satisfy the desire of the afflicted, then shall your light rise in the darkness and your gloom be as the noonday.

Be open to God's plan – listen for the guidance for your journey.

Listen for new people to reach, new missions to accept and new journeys in which to embark.

Pray for God to continue to provide the strength and guidance He has bestowed upon you thus far.

Above all - take the time to listen for answers.

Philippians 2.12-13: Therefore, my beloved, as you have always obeyed, so now, not only as in my presence but much more in my absence, work out your own salvation with fear and trembling, for it is God who works in you, both to will and to work for his good pleasure.

As I stated in the beginning, this is a wonderful day for you, your family and friends, the church, and the community.

But more importantly, this is a great day for those who do not know it – for those you will reach - for those to whom you will provide hope - for those who do not yet know you are coming to spread the love and peace of our Lord!

You are an amazing man! May God Bless you and your efforts as you begin your new ministry.

Angel Tree Wrap-up

College Park's Angel Tree ministry served nearly 40 children this Christmas and a host of furry, four-legged friends waiting to be placed in foster homes by Greensboro's Animal Foster & Rescue program. We shopped, wrapped gifts and visited families in their homes. We expanded our giving to Peck Elementary School children with gifts for 9 children. Thanks to the generosity of the congregation and friends of College Park, each child received four gifts – toys, games, books, clothing and shoes.

What started as a test run with the Prison Fellowship Angel Tree ministry became a full-fledged partnership. We requested the names of 20 children in Rockingham and Guilford counties, because by October, all but 11 Guilford County children had been assigned to partner churches. The Missions team contacted caregivers of each child, reviewed gift ideas and arranged home visits. We ended up with 29 children, because part of our commitment to the program includes providing gifts for other minor children in the home. Thanks to the College Park youth and their annual Angel Tree shopping outing, each child received an additional gift or two, given on behalf of their incarcerated parent. The Missions team hitched up the College Park trailer, delivered gifts and visited with families on Sun., Dec. 17 and Mon., Dec. 18.

In 2018, we plan to expand the delivery team and opportunities for building relationships with caregivers and their families.

Homeless veterans living in shelters and transitional housing provided by Open Door Ministries and Caring Services of High Point also benefitted from College Park's generous giving at Christmas. Additional money donated to the Angel Tree fund was used to put together shaving kits for the 18 veterans served by both agencies.

Want to get involved? Attend a Missions Team meeting. We meet the second Sunday of each month at 12:15 p.m. in the conference room downstairs. Or email Margaret Bell – margaret@inhousemedia.us.
